I. INTRODUCTION

This Marid Industries Corporation Employee Handbook, (hereinafter referred to as "Marid Industries" or the "Company"), establishes policies, procedures, benefits, and working conditions that will be followed by all Marid Industries Employees as a condition of their employment at the Company.

The Standards of Conduct described herein are the expected actions and behaviors of employees while conducting Company business.

This Marid Industries Employee Handbook is not a contract of employment nor is intended to create a contractual obligation for the Company of any kind.

The policies and procedures outlined in this handbook will be applied at the discretion of the Company. Marid Industries reserves the right to deviate from the policies, procedures, benefits, and working conditions described in this handbook.

Furthermore, the Marid Industries reserves the right to withdraw or change the policies, procedures, benefits, and working conditions described in this handbook at any time, for any reason, and without prior notice.

The Company will make every effort to notify the employees when an official change in policy or procedure has been made but employees are responsible for their own up-to-date knowledge about the Company policies, procedures, benefits, and working conditions.

Marid Industries strives to provide an employee-friendly environment in which goal-oriented individuals thrive as they achieve ever more demanding challenges. Your Company's commitment to serving customers and to providing quality products at competitive prices is unwavering. These policies, procedures, and working conditions provide a work environment in which both customer interests and employee interests are served.

Please review this Handbook carefully. You will be asked to affirm that you have read, understood, agreed to abide by, and acknowledge the receipt of this Handbook. Violations of these policies may result in disciplinary actions, potentially including termination and/or pursuance of legal remedies.

MISSION:
To ignite a culinary revolution with our self-heating packaging solutions.

VISION:
To be the trailblazer of the self-heating food packaging industry, setting a new standard for quality and innovation across the globe.

CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY:
Our Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) initiatives are designed to create a profound and lasting impact in three key areas: sustainability, community empowerment, and ethical stewardship.

II. ONBOARDING

As a new employee of Marid Industries, you must submit the following pre-employment requirements to the Human Resources Department:

- Original NBI Clearance (Should be valid for more than 1 month from the start date)
- 2pcs 1x1 colored ID picture
- Valid identification / any proof to show government ID numbers:
  a. Copy of SSS ID or E-1 Form / SSS Employee Static Information
  b. Copy of PhilHealth ID or PhilHealth Member's Data Record (MDR)
  c. Copy of TIN ID or any copy of stamped BIR form with TIN
  d. E-SAV or HMDF Member Data Form
- Copy of Birth Certificate
- Copy of Marriage Certificate (if applicable)
- Copy of Dependent's Birth Certificate (if applicable)
- Copy of Transcript of Records (TOR) or Diploma (if applicable)

- BIR Form 2316 (for the current year) or waiver
- Upon employment, you shall be required to sign a Confidentiality and Non-Disclosure Agreement.
- The above requirements are necessary to ensure that all your personal information for employee benefits enrollment is complete and accurate. Failure to complete the requirements within a given time frame may be a ground for discontinuance of employment.
- We collect and maintain personal and job-related information about our employees in the 201 files. It is the employee's responsibility to update the HR Department on any and all changes. We hold this information in the strictest confidence.

III. STATUS OF EMPLOYMENT

A. Probationary Employment

All employees of Marid Industries generally shall undergo a probationary period. The normal probationary period is one hundred and eighty (180) days, subject to extension as may be allowed by existing law, rule, or jurisprudence.

At the start of the employment, the manager shall clearly explain to the probationary employee the level of performance and standards required for the position. Thus, the performance shall be monitored and reviewed regularly during the probationary period. If the performance is found to be at least satisfactory, the employee shall be informed in writing about the confirmation of regular employment with the Company. The date of the change from probation to regular employment shall be stated in the letter.

Should, at the end of the six-month period and even during the probation period wherein coaching and training have taken place, the probationary employee falls below the desired standard, it is the management's discretion to decide the case in the most appropriate manner.

B. Regular Employment

A probationary employee who, during the period of probation satisfactorily meets the standards for regularization for the position, shall be accorded a regular employment status. The Company may already accord an employee a regular employment status at the onset of the employment, solely at its discretion. On the other hand, if the employee fails to meet the standards set forth by the Company for regularization, the Company may terminate his probationary employment by giving him notice before the effective date of termination.

C. Exempt Employees

These are employees whose job assignments meet the legal requirements for overtime exemption. They are no longer entitled to holiday and night differential pay. These are the managers and up.

D. Non-Exempt Employees

Employees who are eligible to receive a premium for overtime hours worked, holiday, and night differential pay.

E. Project Employees

The Company hires project employees for specific projects from time to time. Project employees are not eligible for benefits granted to regular employees. They are, however, provided statutory benefits.

IV. COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS

A. Salaries

The basic salary covers regular working days and non-working holidays. Salaries are paid every 15th and 30th of the month. The compensation of each employee is confidential information and should not be shared with other employees or people outside the company. Any deviation in maintaining confidentiality on the part of the employees could lead to consequences ranging from censure to separation from the company.

B. Night Differential

All non-exempt employees whose work schedule falls between 10 PM to 6 AM are eligible to receive night differential pay.

C. Overtime

Non-exempt employees are qualified to receive the applicable premium for overtime work provided if such overtime is approved by the manager. Work even if beyond 8 hours in a day shall not be automatically considered paid overtime. Failure to render overtime work arising from business needs, where allowed by law, or required by the supervisor or manager, may result in disciplinary action including and up to termination of employment. Employees are required to perform overtime work when their duties require the same, provided the overtime work is with the approval of the supervisor or manager.

D. Salary Deductions

As required by current laws, the following items are deducted monthly from the salaries of the employee, namely:

- Withholding tax payments remitted to the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR)
- Social Security System (SSS) contribution payments
- Philippine Health Insurance System (PHIC) contribution payments
- PAG-IBIG fund contribution

There are also deductions required by Company Policies. Company property or assets lost or stolen while under the employee's care shall be charged to the employee at its current value. The liability is immediately due and payable in full to the Accounting Department. A schedule of payments may otherwise be arranged.

E. Thirteenth (13th) Month or Fixed Bonus Pay

Employees shall be entitled to a fixed bonus in the form of the 13th month's pay which shall be paid through payroll not later than the 24th of December. This bonus is given on a pro-rata basis. The employee should have rendered service to the Company for at least one (1) month in the calendar year to be eligible to receive this bonus.

F. Leaves

1. Vacation Leave

The Company provides each employee paid leave credits depending on their tenure. The number of leave credits resets at the start of each year.

2. Sick Leave

The Company provides each employee five (5) working days of sick leave with pay every year. Sick leaves are earned effectively upon the date of hire as a probationary employee. All employees are entitled to sick leave with pay upon hire. Sick leaves apply only if the employee themselves are ill.

3. Maternity Leave (ML)

Under the Expanded Maternity Leave Law, the compensable number of days for maternity benefit leave are the following:

- 105 days for live childbirth, regardless of the mode of delivery (whether CS or normal)
- 60 days paid leave for miscarriage and emergency termination of pregnancy (ETP)
- Additional 15 days paid leave if the female employee is a qualified solo parent
- With an option to extend for an additional thirty (30) days without pay in case of live childbirth.
- Employees are required to notify the Human Resources Department within sixty (60) days upon confirmation of pregnancy and must submit all the necessary documents for the Maternity Leave filing.

4. Paternity Leave (PL)

All married male employees are entitled to a Paternity Leave of seven (7) days full pay for the first four (4) deliveries (live childbirth or miscarriage). The male employee applying for paternity leave shall notify the HR Department of the pregnancy of his spouse and the expected delivery date. Proof of pregnancy and marriage contract must be provided to avail of this leave benefit.

5. Solo Parent Leave

Parental Leave (paid) of not more than seven (7) working days per year shall be granted to any solo parent employee who has rendered service for at least one (1) year. Parental leave is defined as leave benefits granted to a solo parent to enable him/her to perform parental duties and responsibilities where physical presence is required.

Employee availing of the said leave needs to submit a copy of the Solo Parent Identification card as issued by the Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD). The Solo Parent Identification Card is necessary for the availment of benefits under Republic Act No. 8972.

The seven (7) working days of parental leave are non-cumulative. In the event that the parental leave is not availed of, said leave cannot be converted to cash.

6. Magna Carta for Women

Any female employee who has been with the Company for the last twelve (12) months is entitled to up to two (2) months with full pay based on her gross monthly compensation following surgery caused by a gynecological disorder. The special leave benefit may be filed at least five (5) days in advance or within a reasonable period prior to the scheduled date of gynecological surgery. In case of an emergency surgical procedure, the said leave shall be filed immediately upon the employee's return from the said leave.

7. Violence Against Women and Children

Female employees who are victims as defined in Republic Act No 9262, otherwise known as Violence Against Women and Children Law, are entitled to ten (10) days with full pay. The leave benefit shall cover the days that the female employee must attend to medical and legal concerns.

Certification from the Barangay or from the Court that an action relative to the matter is pending is required for the female employee to be entitled to the said leave.

Vacation Leave and Sick Leave eligibility per tenure:

TENURE	TOTAL VL (per year)	TOTAL SL (per year)
Upon regularization (6 months)	5 days	5 days

8. Leave Approval

Proper notification and filing must be strictly observed at all times to ensure compliance in availing of the specific leave benefit. Team Lead/Supervisor/Manager who fails to validate any leave request but still approves the same will be held accountable for not following the required leave process in approving the leave request. Disciplinary action will be imposed on the erring Team Lead/Supervisor/Manager, per Company's policies.

9. Holiday Pay

The Company shall observe Philippine Legal Holidays. Due to the nature of the business, employees may be scheduled to work on a Philippine holiday, thus applicable premium pay subject to the eligibilities and computation under the law shall be followed accordingly.

V. PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT

Team Leaders/Supervisors and Managers are encouraged to discuss job performance, goals, objectives, and personal development informally on a continued basis. It is your responsibility as an employee to likewise ask your immediate supervisor about your own performance.

Formal performance reviews are conducted annually for regular employees. During this review, you and your immediate superior shall discuss your performance versus the agreed goals and objectives. You shall likewise discuss and identify strengths and weaknesses as well as areas for improvement. Discussions on personal development and career aspirations shall also take place. A positive review does not guarantee a salary increase or promotion nor does it imply continued employment. Informal performance reviews should be conducted between the annual performance evaluation cycles.

All probationary employees shall be evaluated prior to regularization.

Compensation increases, promotions, and transfers are at the discretion of the Company.

VI. CODE OF ETHICS

Marid Industries Corporation believes in the promotion of a working environment that fosters and maintains a high level of self–discipline among all its employees. The management expects that each employee will observe reasonable standards of conduct in the performance of their work, in their relationship with fellow employees, and in dealings with clients, business partners, and suppliers. Marid Industries Corporation maintains a positive view and progressive approach to discipline. Disciplinary action is undertaken not to punish the employees but to affect corrective measures. Marid Industries believes each member of the organization must be given the opportunity to be coached and counseled, except in some incidents which may be subject to immediate dismissal. The Code of Ethics is designed to ensure that when deviations are committed, corrective actions shall always be constructive, consistent, objective, and fair.

Corrective Action Guidelines

1.1 Corrective actions are sanctions imposed as soon as possible after the offense has been clearly established.
1.2 The rules and the corresponding corrective actions shall be imposed with fairness. Due process of law and the right to a prompt hearing will be accorded to the errant employee.
1.3 Corrective actions are commensurable to the offense committed.
1.4 Corrective action or sanction is limited to verbal advice, written advice, final warning, and termination and in no instance, it is in violation of the labor laws and fair labor practices.

The focus of corrective action levels should remain developmental and future-focused. The goal is the development of good performance in the future, the individual employee's responsibility for his/her performance, result, and relationships.

Marid Industries has the right to expect a total performance commitment from its employees. This includes the expectation that performance infractions that warrant formal corrective action will never require similar action. Likewise, employees have the right not to have past performance problems remain in their files forever, running the risk of an adverse effect on their careers. Accordingly, formal corrective action levels remain active for the following time periods.

VIX. EMPLOYEE SEPARATION AND OFFBOARDING

Marid Industries will strive to retain, to the extent consistent with Marid Industries's requirements, the services of all employees, who perform their duties efficiently. However, it may become necessary under certain conditions to terminate employment due to reduced staffing needs, misconduct, budgetary constraints, contractual requirements, or where necessary to comply with applicable law. The various types of termination are defined as follows:

A. Resignation

A resigning employee should submit a letter of resignation to his immediate supervisor 30 days before the effective date of resignation. The letter must be acknowledged and accepted by the immediate superior. During the 30 day-notice period (or whatever period is stated in the job offer/employment contract), the employee is expected to make a proper turnover of his tasks to his/her successor or to his immediate superior and work on his clearance to facilitate a graceful exit.

Upon resignation the employee must complete the following:

1. Undergo exit interview with HR
2. Settle all legal or authorized monetary accountabilities. Authority to Deduct must be signed
3. Return all company properties (fixed assets, computer/laptop, other computer equipment, company keys, clients' items, samples, identification cards, uniforms, etc.)

A resigning employee must clear all his/her accountabilities and other obligations with the Company before he/she may receive his/her last pay.

Acceptance letter of resignation will be given to the resigning employee and the Company reserves the right to waive the 30-day notice period.

B. Termination Due to Just Causes

The Company may terminate the employment of an employee for "just cause" as defined under the Labor Code or for violation of existing Company Rules and Regulations/Employee Handbook. The just causes for termination of employment include but are not limited to the following:

- Serious misconduct or willful disobedience of the lawful orders of the Company or representatives of the Company in connection with the employee's duties.
- Gross and habitual neglect by the employee of his duties
- Fraud or willful breach by the employee of the trust reposed by the Company or to its duly authorized representatives
- Commission of a crime or offense against the person of the employer or any other employee of the Company.
- Violation of the Company's Rules and Regulations
- Any other acts constituting a just cause for separation under Philippine Law.

C. Termination Due to Authorized Causes

The Company may likewise terminate the employment of an employee due to authorized cause, subject to the provisions of law.

D. Separation

Employee separation must then be reported to the Human Resources Department and Payroll Team for timely processing of clearance and full and final pay.

E. Clearance

Company document that enumerates all accountabilities and payables of the employee and is signed by the department representatives. This is one of the bases of Payroll in computing the final pay. The Company reserves the right to withhold full and final payment until the return of any Company-issued equipment, including but not limited to Company laptop.

F. Full and Final Pay

To be released within 30 business days, upon receipt of the payroll team of the completed clearance form.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RECEIPT OF EMPLOYEE HANDBOOK

I understand it is my responsibility to read and abide by the Employee Handbook. The Handbook may be revised on a periodic basis. It is my responsibility to check it all the time. I acknowledge my obligation to read and understand its contents and further acknowledge and agree to that.

The Employee Handbook dated herein supersedes any previous Employee Handbook that may have been issued by the Company.

Neither this Employee Handbook nor any other written or unwritten policy or practice of the company is intended to create an expressed or implied contract, covenant, promise, or representation of continued employment for an employee.

The Company reserves the sole right to add, change, or rescind any policy or practice at any time except that any such modification shall not alter the right of the Company to terminate employment at any time without cause or notice.
